WIFE OF WALNUT TOWNSHIP MAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Samuel Gregory, 73, Burned Preparing For Canning HUSBAND HURT, TOO Two Daughters And Three Sons Survive Former Frankfort Resident

Mrs. Jane Gregory, 73, was injured fatally and her husband, Samuel, was burned on the hands Saturday at 9:40 p. m. when paraffin that Mrs. Gregory was melting on a stove in preparation for canning exploded. Mrs. Gregory, burned horribly by the flames that enveloped her, died in Berger hospital about two hours after the accident.

Mr. Gregory received treatment for his injuries. He was burned when he tried to beat out flames that caused his wife's death.

The fatal accident happened at the Gregory home in Walnut township, six miles east of Circleville and three miles southeast of Ringgold. The elderly couple was alone in the farm home when the paraffin exploded. Mr. Gregory telephoned Carl Brown, a neighbor, to summon an ambulance. The Albaugh Co. was called.

Former Ross Countians Mr. and Mrs. Gregory removed to Pickaway county from the Frankfort, Ross county, community in 1934. Mrs. Gregory was a native of Ross county.

Surviving besides the husband, a retired farmer, are three sons, Forrest F. Frankfort; Elmer and Bernard, Walnut township; two daughters, Miss Ethel M. Chillicothe, and Miss Dorothy, at home, and two brothers, William Hickie, Frankfort, and John Hickie, Roxabel, O.

Funeral services were held Monday at 2 p. m. in the Estell Methodist Episcopal church near Frankfort. Burial was in Greenlawn cemetery, Frankfort. The Rev. Weed officiating.

MOISTURE PREVENTS TWO FROM GAINING WHEAT LOAN

High percentage of moisture prevented two Pickaway county farmers from obtaining federal loans on their 1938 wheat Saturday. The farmers were the first to seek wheat loans.

Pickaway county farmers may obtain loans of 70 cents a bushel on No. 2 red wheat providing it is stored in approved granaries and contains not over 12 percent moisture. The wheat checked Saturday tested 13.3 and 15.5 percent moisture.

MAJ. DeSEVERSKY SPEEDING AFTER TURNER'S MARK

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 29.—(UP)—Major Alexander P. DeSeversky, trying for an East-West transcontinental speed record, refueled here today and immediately took off again on the second leg of his trip. DeSeversky arrived in Kansas City at 9:51 a. m. and left at 10:22 a. m.

FLOYD BENNETT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(UP)—Major Alexander P. DeSeversky took off in a single-motored, military-type pursuit plane today in an attempt to break the speed record for the westward transcontinental flight.

The time of the take-off was 6:37 a. m. (Circleville time). His destination was Burbank, Cal. He was trying for the record set by Col. Roscoe Turner July 1, 1933—11 hours and 30 minutes.

DeSeversky planned one stop at Kansas City, for fuel.

The plane was a single, low wing, a fuselage of unpainted duraluminum, a twin-bank, 1,250 horsepower Pratt and Whitney wasp motor. The entire wing, from tip to tip, is a fuel tank, but only 520 gallons of gasoline were taken aboard.

DeSeversky has an airplane plant at Farmingdale, N. Y., where the pursuit planes are built. He planned to deliver the plane to Jacqueline Cochran at Burbank. She will fly it back East for the Bendix air races on Sept. 1.

He took off in a seven-mile wind from the Northeast, circled the field and disappeared in the West. He expected to reach the West coast in 10 hours.

GUN STILL IN SCIOTO

Efforts of divers to locate the gun used by Ira Walker, Chillicothe barber, in the murder of Fred Turner, 29, Chillicothean and former Circleville resident, have been unsuccessful. No further effort will be made to locate the gun, tossed in the Scioto river.

Busy in Capital

IT'S putting it mildly to say that Eugenia Pope is the busiest girl in Washington these days. She is the only employee of Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the wage-hour law. Miss Pope keeps a record of 50,000 applications for jobs in the newly-created government bureau.

'FRISCO AFRAID OF LABOR STRIFE SIMILAR TO '34'S

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—(UP)—The San Francisco bay area labor troubles spread on four fronts today in what was described as one of the gravest periods since the general strike of 1934.

With the statement that "it's hard to control a forest fire," James Reed, president of the San Francisco Distributors association, indicated that all of the bay area's 180 warehouses possibly would close in the "hot cargo" dispute with the Committee for Industrial Organization Warehousemen's union. Today 111 were closed and although Reed announced "important developments" for another peace conference later in the day, the prospects of early settlement of the controversy appeared negligible.

JOHN ROOSEVELT BEGINS WORK AS $18 WEEK CLERK

BOSTON, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Clerk No. 2221, who is John Roosevelt, the President's youngest son, reported for work in the bargain basement of William Filene & son's department store today and was assigned a truck which he will push through the aisles with stock to replenish the counters.

He was on the payroll at $18 a week, which won't even pay the rent at the $100-a-month apartment in Brookline which he and his bride, the former Anne Lindsay Clark, have leased.

He insisted on starting at the bottom, however, and working up, he hopes, to the advertising department. In return for asking no favors, he required the store not to exploit his name. Like other Filene employees, he will attend the company's evening school.

GIRL'S ARM CUT SERIOUSLY IN VILLAGE MISHAP

Betty McNeal, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tiffin McNeal, Saltcreek township, was hurt painfully Saturday at 10:30 p. m. when she was struck by the automobile of Joe McNichols, Tar Hollow, when she was crossing a street in Laurelville.

The little girl's right arm was cut in several places, the muscles being severed. Some feared she might lose the use, at least temporarily, of the fingers of her right hand. She was taken to the office of Dr. C. T. Grattidge, Laurelville, for treatment.

50,000 ON HAND FOR FIRST DAY OF STATE FAIR

Perfect Weather Attracts Large Crowd To Grounds During Week-end

JUDGING IS UNDER WAY

Hanefeld Discloses Plans To Expand Property; Cost Uncertain

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—(UP)—The 88th Ohio state fair, favored by bright, arm weather for its official opening today, drew an estimated 50,000 agricultural fans to look at exhibits, witness extensive grandstand and stock judging programs, and to enjoy the usual friendliness of the gigantic farm exposition.

With estimated crowds for two "preview" days over the week-end surpassing 80,000, Fair Director Earl M. Hanefeld predicted a new attendance record will be established during the annual exposition of Ohio's agriculture, industry and institutions which continues through Friday.

Women, children, township and county officers and rural mail carriers were admitted free of charge until 6 p. m. Tuesday. Tuesday will be County Fair Managers Day.

Judging Under Way

While most of the "city patrons" turned their attention to entertainment provided by a large midway, harness races and free acts before the grandstand, the judging of entries, most important feature of the fair for Ohio's farmers, began in the Coliseum and other exhibition halls. Belgian horses, Ayrshires, polled shorthorns and other cattle were the first livestock divisions to parade before the judges.

Farmers' wives competed for premiums in household crafts and hobbies such as photography and painting.

The search for the state's healthiest boy and girl started. Winners will be announced Friday. Competition in farm skills was spotlighted by sheep shearing and milkmaking contests.

Hanefeld disclosed the current exposition had attracted a record-breaking number of livestock entries. There are 12,200 horses, cattle, sheep, swine and goats, including 676 head of cattle groomed by boys and girls. This condition has overcrowded available buildings at the fair grounds and led Hanefeld to push plans for an

HOTEL MAN ON STAND AS HINES TRIAL RESUMES

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Charles W. Hughes, former hotel manager in Bridgeport, Conn., testified today that he saw Tammany Leader James J. Hines in Bridgeport in 1935 with Dutch Schultz, racket Hines is accused of having whose 20,000,000-a-year policy protected.

Hughes pointed to Hines and said he had seen him in the lobby of the Hotel Barnum, where Schultz lived for a while in 1935. He said he also had seen Hines, with Schultz and Lulu Rosenkrantz, Schultz's bodyguard, in a barber shop in Bridgeport. He placed the time as August or September, 1935.

The hotel man was called after former Mayor Leslie V. Bateman of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., had testified regarding conferences with Schultz lieutenants who wanted to move the lottery racket headquarters to that suburb when things became too hot for them in New York City.

"I told them I wasn't interested," Bateman said.

Rev. T. C. Harper Assigned To Charge Seventh Time

The Rev. T. C. Harper, pastor of the Circleville United Brethren church for the last six years, Sunday, was returned to the charge for another year. The assignment was announced at the closing session of the conference held last week in Chillicothe First church.

The Rev. Harper was appointed, too, as superintendent of the Chillicothe district, a post he has held for the last five years. Two changes were made in the Chillicothe district, the Rev. W. V. Harter, of Tupper's Plains, succeeding the Rev. T. C. Gregory, of Amanda, and the Rev. W. E. Campbell being named in place of the Rev. Fred Koster, of Laurelville. Mr. Koster goes to Racine and Mr. Gregory to Enterprise.

Other Chillicothe district assignments include: Ashville, O. W. Smith; Chillicothe Circuit, Raymond Gray; Hallsville, J. D. Hopper; Chillicothe First, W. L. Kuhn; Chillicothe Tyler, M. R. White; Pickaway Circuit, Spurgeon Metzler, and Waverly, Gerald Coy.

Numerous other assignments of interest to Circleville and Pickaway United Brethren church members include D. S. Mills to Avondale; B. C. Peters to Fifth avenue, Columbus; W. F. Rutherford to Wagoner Memorial; B. C. Rife to Washington avenue; A. B. Cox, to Newark First; R. E. Gehres to Rushville; E. W. Seymour to Carroll; E. B. White to Logan First; L. W. Green to Hamden and Pleasant Valley; W. E. Riebel to Philo; C. M. Bowman to Portsmouth First, and Marvin Paxton to Tupper's Plains.

The United Brethren conference will be held in Lancaster next year, beginning on Tuesday and ending with an ordination service and assignment on Friday night. There will be no Sunday session next Fall.

Rev. S. S. Davis Back For Another Year

The Rev. S. S. Davis, 423 S. Washington street, who has served the Circleville Evangelical church for the last two years, Sunday, was reassigned for another year. The Evangelical conference was held at Fremont, closing Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Davis came to Circleville from Columbus to succeed the Rev. C. W. Ruhlman, who was transferred to Akron. The Rev. Mr. Ruhlman is the conference treasurer.

The Rev. Raleigh Sain, of Columbus, remains as district superintendent.

Delegates voted to raise $50,000 in the conference during the next two years for observance of the centennial in 1940 and selected the Miller avenue church, Columbus, for the 1939 conference.

ELEANOR SNYDER'S WORK ON RADIO WINS ACCLAIM

"An outstanding performance" was the acclaim given by her host of friends to Miss Eleanor Snyder, Pinckney street, Circleville's talented mezzo soprano, who was featured Sunday evening on the "Summertime Concert" broadcast from Cincinnati over the NBC network and the Canadian broadcasting system.

Miss Snyder gave a perfect presentation of the aria, "My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice," accompanied by the WLW orchestra under the direction of Josef Cherniavsky. The Circleville artist was the feature of the show "Musical Chance of a Lifetime."

Madcap May Dead; Triumphs Recalled

BOSTON, Aug. 20.—(UP)—To the humble Back Bay apartment of a $16.50 a week W.P.A. clerk today came cablegrams and telegrams of condolence from persons the world over who remembered her as May Yohe, madcap of the Gay Nineties and once owner of the ill-omened but coveted Hope diamond.

Funeral services for Miss Yohe, who died of a heart attack yesterday, will be held Wednesday at a Roxbury funeral parlor, followed by cremation.

"I don't know what I'll do with the ashes," said her third and last husband, Captain John A. Smuts, British veteran of the Boer war and nephew of the famed General

Nazi Chief In Sudden Rhine Tour

Fortifications Checked By Germany Leader And Eight Generals

PARIS, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Fuehrer Adolf Hitler of Germany inspected the Rhine fortifications opposite France today while a French army massed on the Swiss frontier for maneuvers, 115 miles to the South.

It was another of a series of coincidences that have lent drama to the fast brewing crisis of the Czechoslovak minorities dispute.

The French troops were massing, 70 miles from the German frontier, at a point where some experts had predicted that Germany, in the event of war, might seek to march on France through Switzerland. Their maneuvers start tomorrow. The troops were concentrated, in unknown strength, in the Doubs department, on the plateau extending from Besancon to the Swiss frontier at the Fontaine pass.

Suddenly, in a caravan of motor cars, Hitler and eight generals arrived at Kehl, on the Rhine opposite Strasbourg, to inspect Germany's new frontier defenses.

The international bridge was closed at once. The visit was so sudden that municipal officials of Kehl had no time to prepare a reception.

For an hour, Hitler and his generals inspected the defense works on which, it has been reported here, hundreds of thousands of men, many drafted from other parts of the country, are working. After the inspection, Hitler and the generals left in the direction of Offenburg to the South and parallel to the frontier—and the bridge was reopened.

Hitler left in the direction of the Swiss frontier, where the French troops are to start the second phase of the army's yearly maneuvers. The first phase was opposite the Italian frontier.

AKRON HAS LONE PAPER

AKRON, Aug. 29.—(UP)—The Akron Times-Press, a Scripps Howard newspaper, was suspended Saturday night. The formal announcement said the Times-Press had been acquired by the Akron Beacon-Journal, of which John S. Knight is president and editor. Akron now has a single newspaper.

Held as Killer

RAYMOND LEE HUGHES, 42-year-old seaman, above, was taken into custody in San Francisco, Cal., after he allegedly had confessed to a traffic policeman that he had killed a woman. The homicide squad swung into action after the traffic policeman reported to headquarters, and found the girl's body in an apartment. The dead woman was identified by a friend as Genevieve Montgomery, formerly of Toledo, Ohio, with whom Hughes had been living. Police said Hughes allegedly confessed the killing because she had been going with other men. "Honey, I love you," was written on the girl's body with indelible pencil.

FARLEY TO TALK AT CONVENTION OF DEMOCRATS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Postmaster General James A. Farley will be the keynote speaker at the Democratic state convention here Sept. 22-23, it was announced today by Charles Sawyer, Democratic candidate for governor.

Secretary Denies Davey on Committee

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Rumors that Governor Davey might be chosen a member of the Democratic state executive committee from the 14th congressional district were described as "ridiculous" today by Mrs. Myrna Smith the governor's private secretary. "There's absolutely nothing to that," Mrs. Smith said, regarding reports published over the weekend. "That would be a step down for the governor."

Mrs. Smith was named to committeewoman to the executive body from the 14th district but selection of a district committeeman was deferred by the state central committee recently. She said the vacancy probably would be filled soon but declined to speculate on the possible choice.

FANNY'S MOTHER HURT

French Troops Crowd Swiss Borders For Maneuvers; Million Germans Drill

LONDON, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Great Britain and France have warned Germany directly of the possible consequences of any aggression against Czechoslovakia, it was said today in an authoritative quarter. The same sources said that Russia, Roumania and Jugoslavia had told Germany that they would support Czechoslovakia.

The information as given here was as follows:

1. Britain on more than one occasion has warned Germany of the possible consequences of an attack on Czechoslovakia over the minorities dispute. The warning was conveyed by Sir Neville Henderson, ambassador, now here after being called home from Berlin Saturday to receive secret instructions.

2. Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, chief of staff of the French air force, informed Field Marshal Hermann Goering, Germany's air chief, in response to Goering's inquiry that France emphatically would carry out the terms of the French-Czechoslovak military pact if Germany marched on Czechoslovakia.

3. Russia, Roumania and Jugoslavia warned Germany, in response to German diplomatic inquiries, that they would defend Czechoslovakia against any attack.

Crisis on New Basis

This put the Czechoslovak crisis on a somewhat new basis. It would indicate that the speech in which Sir John Simon warned Germany Saturday in behalf of the government was merely a strained version for the public of what actually had occurred.

Sir Neville Henderson was said to have warned Germany not once but on several occasions.

As for France and Russia, each is bound to defend Czechoslovakia under a defensive military alliance. As for Roumania and Jugoslavia, they are Czechoslovakia's partners in the Little Entente, and equally pledged to stand by her.

It was reported today that the

COL. ROOSEVELT GIVES SUPPORT TO F. D.'S FOE

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Theodore Roosevelt, of the Republican Roosevelt, today supported Rep. John J. O'Connor, Tammany Democrat and chairman of the house rules committee, who is running on both the Democratic and Republican tickets in the Sept. 20 primary.

"Because you refused to be a rubber stamp for the President, you have been singled out for martyrdom," Col. Roosevelt wrote O'Connor; "I hope you will receive the Republican endorsement. You merit it as a patriot."

O'Connor led the opposition against the New Deal's government reorganization bill and was denounced by President Roosevelt as an obstructionist.

Motorist Forces Highway
Officer Almost Into
Rt. 22 Guardrail

Three motorists, all charged with operating when intoxicated, were in the county jail, Monday, awaiting hearings.

They were Mrs. Alma Thompson, 43, of 619 Broadway street, Washington C. H., arrested by Sheriff Charles Radcliff in New Holland Saturday afternoon after being stopped by Traffic Officer Roberts; Omer Lemings, 54, of Williamsport, taken into custody by the sheriff when he was returning to Circleville with Mrs. Thompson, and John Sulser, 52, of 926 Pennsylvania avenue, Columbus, caught by officer Wheeler of the state highway patrol near the Little Walnut creek bridge, north of Circleville, when he almost forced the officer to guide his motorcycle into a guard rail.

The sheriff was called from Williamsport concerning the Washington C. H. woman. Informants there said that she had started toward Circleville. When the sheriff reached Williamsport he learned that she had turned her car around and was heading toward New Holland. Officer Roberts had stopped her when the sheriff arrived.

Lemings was observed driving from one side of the road to the other by the sheriff when he approached the Route 22 and 104 intersection. The motorist was stopped and returned to jail.

Patrolman Wheeler, who booked the Columbus man for intoxicated driving, told Sheriff Radcliff that he had narrowly escaped injury when the motorist crowded him toward the guardrail.

Roy Miller, 42, of Ashville, was held in the county jail awaiting a hearing before Squire J. S. Hoover, Harrison township, for intoxication and disorderly conduct. Miller was arrested Saturday night and brought to the county jail by Constable John Baker, who was to file charges.

H. E. Johnston, Pickaway township, is scheduled for a hearing before Mayor W. B. Cady, Tuesday, for overtime parking. He was tagged Saturday in the business district.

First of the big-time radio shows to return to the air after a Summer's recess will be the M.G.M. "Good News" show, with Meredith Willson once more at the musical helm, and last year's cast intact.

Willson, cutting short his vacation to be on hand for the premiere, went immediately from his train to the initial orchestra rehearsals.

Alice Faye has signed to appear as guest star on the first program, along with Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney. Frank Morgan, Fanny Brice, Judy Garland and Robert Young head the list of regulars.

HEIDT BIG BUSINESS

Most orchestras are portrayed to the public as happy-go-lucky organizations—but not so Horace Heidt and his Brigadiers.

The more than thirty people that Heidt carries with him to make up his complete stage show necessitates organization along the lines of a big business.

With Heidt as director, the Brigadiers are organized under eleven main departments which include: program planning committee, musical arranging staff, broadcasting staff (with sub-departments of new ideas, libran, vocal arrangements, set-up committee and radio station relations), dance music staff, treasurer and secretary, personnel committee, stage production, advertising staff, recreation committee, educational committee, which gathers important data regarding the cities in which the band plays, and the fan mail department.

By having his organization departmentalized with a particular person or persons responsible for various phases of the business and social life of the personnel, Heidt is able to keep his business functioning smoothly and efficiently.

Muhlenberg Has Claim To Numerous "Honors"

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

A few days since, we made mention of our old friend Harry Moore being at headquarters and telling us enough about his old home township of Muhlenberg to almost convince us that it is about as good as Madison. Said that Peter Muhlenberg was among the early settlers there, being the first county representative to the Ohio legislature and that it was through him that the township of Muhlenberg is a part of the county today, the township bearing his name.

And more to the credit of his home township: a wagon maker named Studebaker at an early period when farm wagons were in full bloom, made wagons at Darbyville and this same Studebaker family established the well known Studebaker wagon factory at South Bend, Ind., and later manufactured the automobile by this name. And still more credit: An old settler made what was known as Stottliemyer's Bitters, bearing the manufacturer's name. This medicine was good for most everything that ailing flesh was heir to and especially strong in the ingredient that is a "sure cure" for snake bites. These bitters were made in one of the rooms of the old hotel building which recently burned. And this is not all that is interesting about this early day Darbyville medicine, Harry tells us. Dr. Hartman heard about "good bitters" and came to Darbyville and purchased the recipe and exclusive right to manufacture the medicine but changed the name to the later well-known Peruna. So the broad and fertile acres of the well-known Hartman Farm had their ownership beginning in Muhlenberg township—Darbyville.

So, now, we'll have to dig into some of those old Pickaway county histories (three of 'em, different dates of publication) to find out if we can give Madison another boost or two, besides having the first rural high school in the county, first congressman to Washington, blue-ribbon, Teggard short-horn cattle, founding of big fire mutual, besides tallest corn, biggest pumpkins and largest fish. Won't yield first place to Harry, just can't be done—Madison is best. And besides all this, it's just chuck full of Democrats.

Ashville—We welcome our "new" preacher for the fifth time to the United Brethren church. Rev. Smith is one of those everyday, kindly disposed ones whom we are always glad to meet and converse with. And that good old friend to all of us, Rev. P. E. Wright has again been selected as District Superintendent. When Rev. Wright, as a beginner, was granted permission to preach, he started in doing what he came here for, to make Ashville a better place in which to live. He had splendid success.

Ashville—Clarence Younkin and wife of Miami, Fla., are here spending some time among relatives. They have been in the South for the past fifteen years. . . . John Darst and Fred Younkin are constructing for Donald Courtwright at his farm west of town a 30 x 56

In a faithful reproduction of Madison Square Garden, covering more than 20,000 square feet of floor space, Robert Taylor fought in succession William Gargan, Mickey McAvoy, New York Irish heavyweight, and Patsy Perroni, the first fighter to last ten rounds with heavyweight champion Joe Louis.

After five days of workouts at his Northridge ranch with former light-heavyweight Johnny Indragano, who had also been training Gargan, Taylor began his fight scenes for "The Crowd Roars," which is now showing at the Cliftona Theatre.

Virginia Bruce used up all her rattlesnake-bite medicine while on location at Kanab, Utah, but never saw a rattler.

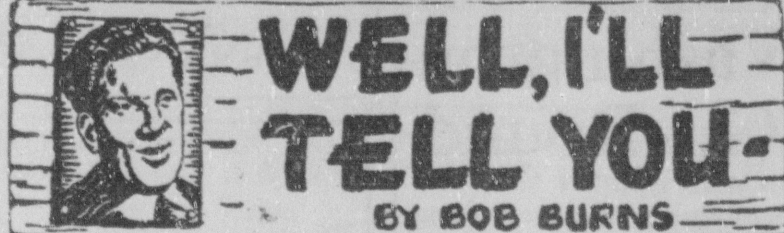

When she left with the "Bad Man of Brimstone" company she bought a box of snake antidote, after hearing blood-curdling tales about the rattlesnakes on location.

Wallace Beery, who didn't carry any snake remedy, killed several. Miss Bruce returned to Hollywood with the company and remarked to Beery that she'd used up all her snake medicine, about which he had joked her continually on location.

"But you weren't near a snake," remarked Beery.

"No," she answered, "but I used

A lot of people have asked me if I would like to go back over the ground I have covered so I could do some things different. I guess I'm a whole lot like my Uncle Hod. He says, "The most timid animal in the world is the rabbit and he back-tracks." Uncle Hod wouldn't cage anything for anybody. He simply says, "Here it is and you can make the most of it."

One day when he was awfully tired, he walked into a barber shop and slumped down in the chair and says, "Give me a shave." The barber looked at him and says, "You're slumped down too far in the chair for me to shave you." Without movin', Uncle Hod says, "All right, then—gimme a haircut!"

McAdoo's Place at Stake In California Ballot

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—(UP)—California's turbulent political campaign, marked by President Roosevelt's intervention in behalf of Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, reached its climax today with a series of radio broadcasts before tomorrow's primary.

McAdoo and his principal opponents on the Democratic ticket, Sheridan Downey and John Preston, chose to make their final appeals by radio before returning to their homes to vote. Republican senatorial candidates and Democratic and Republican candidates for governor likewise scheduled numerous radio addresses.

Mr. Roosevelt's endorsement of McAdoo, originally made while he was on his trans-continental tour in July, was renewed last week when the President attacked the state's proposed $30 every Thursday pension plan as unworkable.

McAdoo has opposed the plan, while Downey and Preston are supporting it. A fourth candidate, James W. Mellen, Los Angeles, was out of the race. The Republican gubernatorial campaign settled down to a personal battle between Gov. Frank F. Merriam, winner over Upton Sinclair in 1934, and Lieut. Gov. George Hatfield. Eight candidates sought the Democratic nomination for governor. They were State Senator Culbert Olson, Rep. John Dockweiler, Sheriff Dan Murphy of San Francisco, former Controller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor, Herbert C. Legg, Teodoro Antonio Tomasini, Raymond Haight and William Neblett.

McAdoo's opponents accused him of being a member of the Ku Klux Klan and of bringing pressure against federal employees forcing them to support him. McAdoo denied the accusations, and in turn accused Downey and Preston of raising false hopes among the aged by supporting the $30 weekly pension program.

Republicans Voting

The Republican senatorial nomination lay between Ray Riley, former state controller whose platform said he would "stick to the middle of the road," and Philip Bancroft, outspoken opponent of labor unions and critic of many

GRAND LARCENY CHARGES FILED AGAINST GIRLS

Mary Roberts and Lucile Aumock, both 18, Saturday afternoon, were turned over to the Columbus police department to face charges of grand larceny. They are alleged to have taken $75 worth of clothing from a Columbus residence.

The girls, the former giving her address as 339 E. Main street and the latter, 46 Hozack street, Columbus, were arrested 10 days ago with Howard Radcliff, 21, and Homer Bostic, 26, both of whom have confessed participation in several chicken thefts in Pickaway, Fairfield and Ross counties.

Mrs. Ella Woods, 79, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl Porter, 386 E. Franklin street, Saturday evening at 6:30 from a heart ailment. She has been in failing health for several years.

Mrs. Woods was a native of Oak Hill, Ohio and had been making her home with her daughter for the last several years.

Besides Mrs. Porter, she is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. Marie Wagner of Columbus and Mrs. Hazel Shelton of Oak Hill, O.

The body was taken to Oak Hill Sunday where funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 o'clock. M. S. Rinehart is in charge of funeral arrangements.

Best wishes to John Roosevelt, recent bridegroom, as he seeks oblivion in a Boston department store. But he won't find it. If he sells a yard of ribbon, it will be news.

TOWN BUYS A CAT

ST. LOUIS seems to be excited over what is described as a "black tom cat" made of bronze and bought for the local art museum for $14,000. Kickers complain about its price. Union labor representatives have been picketing the city hall with signs reading, "Fourteen thousand dollars for a useless bronze cat—nothing for labor."

The museum heads counter with the statement: "This cat, the most important object of its kind in America, was not modeled out of sentimental regard for a household pet, but as an enduring symbol of the great goddess Ubastet, protecting the deity of the city of Babastis in the Nile Delta."

To which critics may still reply: "So what? What is the great goddess Ubastet to us, or what are we to her?"

But this isn't all. The question might be raised whether the animal in question really is a cat. The pictures show it as surprisingly long and tall. And to some observers it looks much like pictures published in this country a year or two ago of a domesticated animal found in Africa, which looks like a big cat and is used for hunting, and is a dog, though it doesn't bark. It looks, too, like strange dog-cat pictures in the pyramids.

If the St. Louis specimen happens to be a dog, what then?

GENEVA PREPARES

JUST about the last bit of dissatisfaction regarding peace comes with the news that the city of Geneva, Switzerland, has set up a "tank trap" within 500 yards of the League of Nations Palace. That shows in a spectacular way the lack of faith in organized peace which exists in what was intended to be the very center of world peace.

There is said to be such a trap on every road leading into Geneva. They are concrete strips running across the asphalt pavement, somewhat like traps dug for bears or elephants. The tank is supposed to come blundering along and break through.

There's one more thing we don't seem to need yet in America.

Douglas Corrigan thinks there is distinguished precedent for his geographical error. Columbus set out for India, you know, and reached America.

Now a radio listener complains that, in a Fourth of July program, George Washington "spoke with a British accent."

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Election irregularities are an old story.

They date back to the days when all nominations were made in party conventions, usually preceded by secret conferences of a few bosses in the well-known "smoke-filled rooms".

The nominations doubtless were framed in advance, but that was supposed to be all right. It was not considered strictly according to Hoyle for a candidate to overstep himself against his election day opponent. It occasionally caused him trouble to be caught at it, anyway. But the regularity of his nomination never was disputed.

TWO QUESTIONS

These times two questions arise. It still is asked, "Was the election o. k.?" Back of that, however, is the query, "Was the winning party candidate fairly nominated?"

There are two elections, in short, and recent charges and counter-charges hint that the first one (the primary) is liable to be characterized by as much queer business as the second one, in November. Maybe more. Rival party candidates watch one another's campaigns pretty closely. If one of them suspects any crookedness in his opponent's methods he is not a bit hesitant to say so vehemently. In an intra-party primary the tendency is to hush scandals up, in the interest of party harmony.

PRIMARY WORSE

That is to say, an election day candidate is forced to be reasonably discreet, because he knows that, if he wins and the loser believes he can make out a good case, the latter's disposition will be to contest the former's victory.

In a primary contest, on the opposite hand, the winner is tolerably certain that the loser, even if badly disgruntled, will go through the form of congratulating him—will keep quiet, at least. He may not feel like it, but all his friends will say, "Now, don't split the party wide open." And probably, if the primary winner's side wins the election also, the primary loser gets some sort of an appointment for being good, which consoles him quite a lot.

True, this year's Democratic primaries are being extraordinarily bitter. Possibly there will be some primary aftermaths.

Yet we have "Happy" Chandler congratulating the primary candidate who licked him. And "Happy" complained of having been poisoned during that primary campaign, presumably by his political foes. If poisoning (supposing any such thing) isn't ground for contesting a primary nomination on, what would be? Still, if it was done, it was all in the Democratic family—so let it pass!

CLOSER SUPERVISION

What I mean to say is: If a Democratic candidate poisoned his Republican rival and won, by virtue of the dose, the Republican surely would contest the Democrat's election, because that would be an inter-party matter.

But for a Democrat to poison a Democrat or a Republican to poison a Republican is intra-party, which is altogether different.

All the same, a situation arises which calls for rather closer supervision of primaries than heretofore. It always was recognized that elections need supervision. Primaries have been rather neglected. Senator Morris Shepard's investigating committee is giving them a bit of attention. It is not wasted.

A DISGUSTED SENATOR

Speaking of primaries: In their comparatively early days we had in Washington a Maine senator named Arthur Gould.

Near the end of his term he announced that he was not a candidate for renomination. I was surprised, having supposed his renomination and re-election to be assured. Dropping into his office, I asked, "Senator, why shan't you run again?"

"Well," said the Maine statesman, "I'm sick of the senate. All it does is to talk and talk and talk. If ever I come back to congress it will be as a representative. That house has some organization. It chokes off the windbags and transacts business."

MURPHY OUT OF MICHIGAN

WASHINGTON—Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan is one of the President's closest and most esteemed friends. He is also a devoted and uncompromising New Dealer. But this did not keep a number of the President's family from secretly trying to put the skids under Murphy.

The ambitious master mind of this scheme was G. Hall Roosevelt, brother of Mrs. Roosevelt and former controller of the City of Detroit.

Several weeks before the Michigan Democratic convention, Hall came to Murray D. Van Waggoner, State Highway Commissioner, and told him that Washington didn't think Murphy could be re-elected and wanted Van Waggoner to be the party's gubernatorial champion.

Van Waggoner is a popular gladiator with one of the strongest political machines in the history of Michigan. He has been quietly grooming himself to run against Senator Arthur Vandenberg, when the latter comes up for re-election in 1940. But with Hall broadly intimating that the White House wanted him to substitute for Murphy, Van Waggoner got busy.

He sent out a call to his county highway supervisors for a secret conference on the Sunday before the deadline for filing candidacies. At the confab Van Waggoner related what Hall Roosevelt had told him and asked his henchmen what they thought about his running for Governor.

Their overwhelming advice was to stay out of the race. They informed Van Waggoner that despite Hall's assertion of Murphy's weakness, the Governor had a strong hold on the State and an excellent chance to be re-elected. They advised Van Waggoner to let Hall find someone else to axe Murphy.

Van Waggoner took his lieutenant's advice. He went to Murphy, told him the whole story and assured him he would support his renomination at the convention—which he did.

VICE PRESIDENTIAL REST

Three Texas Congressmen, Sam Rayburn, Marvin Jones and Wright Patman, happened to be together in one corner of their State this summer, when Jones remarked:

"I think I'll call up Jack Garner in Uvalde and go down to see him."

"Don't call him up," suggested Patman. "He'll think you want something from him and put you off. Just drive by there and you'll find him sitting on the front porch in his stocking feet smoking a cigar."

"Suppose he's out fishing," demurred Jones. "Then I'd have to wait a whole day."

"Oh, he always goes fishing at five in the morning and is back by noon," replied Patman.

So Congressman Jones took the advice, drove to Uvalde unannounced, and sure enough found the Vice President of the United States sitting in a rocking-chair on his front porch, stocking-footed and smoking a big cigar.

The summer of our discontent is beginning to perk up.

Whooping Cough Vaccine Should Be Given

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
PARENTS NOW have to make up their minds about another form of immunization for their children—that against whooping cough.

Some day the time will come when young children will have to take off a sabbatical year and be immunized against everything all at once.

The whooping cough question arises in connection with the apparent success of the Sauer vaccine. I think it is fair to advise parents that this should be given to their children, but it is by no means in the same class of necessity or certainty as diphtheria and smallpox vaccination. It is, however, perfectly safe.

Whooping cough is by no means a minor malady, although often so regarded. It not only makes a child very weak and sick, but has a very definite death rate. Anything that can be done to prevent it, therefore, is to be desired and welcomed.

Since Dr. Sauer introduced his vaccine, in 1934, there has been a marked reduction in the incidence of whooping cough. From 1930 to 1935 there were reported in the United States, on the average, 196,000 cases of whooping cough a year. In 1936 there were 147,000. The figures for 1937 are not yet available, but the indications are that the decrease will be maintained.

Due to Vaccine?
Was this due to the introduction of the prophylactic vaccine? That

AFRAID TO MARRY

HELEN WELSHIMER

Written for and Released by
CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Judy Rogers, New York heiress, is stunned when Craig Denby, the man she loves, tells her on the phone that he has married a girl he met at a week-end house party. Afraid of marriage, Judy reflects she put Craig off once too many times. Then she phones her father's lawyers to learn the details of his financial crash, just announced in the newspapers, and talks with Ronald Birrell, a brilliant young attorney from Tennessee who has just joined the firm.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 2

"I WANT to hear the facts in the case, and if I have to depend on you for them, I suppose it's Childs'." Judy answered the question of the young attorney who had said:

"Is it Childs' or not?"
"Good! The corned beef hash is excellent and there are those who have great fondness for their chicken croquettes with mashed potatoes."

"And hot butter cakes. I like them."

"Then you have been there!" He sounded almost glad.

"Sometimes for breakfast, after a party. I know their eggs, too." It was foolish talk, something with which to pass away a few of the moments that stretched in a shadowy strain forever since Craig was gone. Craig—the name turned in her heart like something burning, quivering, beating, pulsing.

Because she wanted to cry, Judy's voice was not laughing now, but thin and cool, the huskiness quite gone, as she promised to meet Ronald Birrell at his offices at 1.

She would not have minded a subway, as a means of transportation to the office, on any other morning. But today the thought of the tall young man who was hurrying to meet his bride made her legs weak, her stomach hurt, her head ache.

She called the butler, asked him to have the town car ready and sat in one corner as the chauffeur threaded his way downtown. She smiled crookedly as she dismissed him. The probably was her last ride in the car. All servants would be leaving within a few days. But that did not matter. The fortune wasn't important. But Craig...

"If I only had not been so frightened at marriage, of love ending, he would never have married this other girl. He loved me, he loved me, he loved me!" The words went singing through her heart. Then a sharp contradiction almost interrupted: "But did he? Wasn't it habit? Maybe love doesn't last. You knew it didn't—that's why you refused him before—why be so upset when your theories prove true?"

It was such a hopeless problem that she finally pushed it away. She tried to think of young Ronald Birrell as she went up in the elevator to the well-known law offices where she had gone so many times, in former days, to pick up a check, or ask a favor when her father was abroad.

Miss Martin greeted her. Idly Judy noticed her blue eyes, her hands of honey-colored hair. Pretty. And a little contemptuous of the fallen debutante.

"Mr. Birrell is waiting for you," she said, and led Judy down the deeply-carpeted hall to a half open door.

Judy stepped inside. A tall young man, with wide shoulders, was standing at a window, his back turned to her. His hair was red, such a rebellious, rough, vibrant red that she checked an impulse to laugh. So this was Ronald Birrell, the mountain boy from Tennessee, who had made such a name for himself during his two years of practice in a southern city that the famous law firm had offered him a place on its staff. In that moment

Judy saw her, she remembered other things about him. He had been a football star, an All-American in fact, at Princeton. Then he had gone back home to begin the career which he was continuing in New York.

He turned. His eyes were gray and friendly. His face was lean and tanned. The hand that he extended was strong and forceful.

"Judy Rogers," he said, more than asked. "I'm glad you came."

"I didn't know. I'm glad you decided my way."

"So am I." Judy smiled. Dimples flashed in her cheeks, the brown eyes quivered with small golden lights. The young man glanced at her quizzically. She flushed a little. Silly! Hadn't young men glanced at her that way often?

Across the room she glimpsed herself in a mirror. The yellow frock with its wide brown belt and brief brown jacket was stunning enough. So were the accessories, carefully assembled. She noted that Ronald Birrell's suit was a good tweed, in excellent taste. She wondered why she had expected that it wouldn't be.

He took her into a quiet restaurant near the office.

"But this wasn't in your promise," Judy exclaimed.

"I decided we needed a corner where we could talk. We've a lot to say to each other. First, let's order."

"You have a lot to say to me," Judy corrected. "I'd like tomato juice, an omelette and dry toast."

He shook his head. "No go. For the ordeals ahead of you, young lady, you should have a beef stew, with lots of vegetables. But—well, this time you may have the omelette."

This time... It was sheer idiocy to be glad he had said the two words which projected their acquaintanceship into the future, she told herself. She was, though, being an honest person, she admitted the fact.

He leaned back in his chair. "We could have made it the Ritz, or the St. Regis, or Twenty-One—not on my expense account, either—but I thought you should grow accustomed to the lesser eating places."

"Thoughtful of you, Mr. Birrell. Know any nice lunch counters?"

"Dozens of them. I'll initiate you."

"Thanks. But I won't be here." "Going away?"

"She wondered if the concern in his eyes could be real."

"In a day or two. My father and stepmother are busy, and I'm in the way. My mother's in France and it's time to join her, anyway. She'll be cabling me a ticket and—she shrugged. ## STARS SAY—

For Monday, August 29

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL forecast is a particularly happy and propitious one. There is pre-arrangement of a sudden stroke of good fortune that may result in the fulfillment of a cherished heart's desire. All this involves much activity, both in a business connection and in social, domestic and romantic adjustments.

If This Is Your Birthday
Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a particularly felicitous, prosperous and progressive year, with an outstanding stroke of good fortune assisting the wheels into grooves of a long-cherished heart's desire. New projects may be pushed under such stimulus, but the heart interest seems paramount.

A child born on this day may be capable, ambitious, magnanimous and gracious, with an intellect and personal bearing that may assist it to a place of power and influence in private as well as business life. It may be religiously inclined and should have a serviceable and happy-life.

Hollywood must be a grand spot. The cast of characters in a movie such as "Alexander's Ragtime Band" can enact 20 years of jazz history without aging one bit.

The new hat styles may be a pain in the neck to some of the boys, but think of the ideas they must offer to comic strip artists.

Brief items of interest to Pickaway Farmers

The number of acres required to produce the pork products exported from the United States

Although the use of electricity on farms is increasing rapidly, only three out of each eight farms in the United States had telephones and four out of 10 had electric lights early in 1938, according to a survey made by the Department of Commerce.

The August 1 prospects for livestock feed appeared to be the most favorable for any time in the past 10 years. Feed supplies are abundant and livestock numbers are low enough so there will be a larger than average supply of feed per animal unit.

Soybeans should be cut for hay when the beans are one-fourth to one-half full size, or by September 1 in northern Ohio and September 1 in the southern part of the state. Professor J. B. Park, Ohio State university, says the amount of protein in this hay increases steadily following the bloom stage.

Ohio land use committees made up of 1,800 farmers recommended that the amount of pastured woodland in the state be reduced more than 700,000 acres. These farmers believe that woodlots are more profitable when fenced against livestock.

Erosion and leaching remove 43.7 percent of the nitrogen, 51.7 percent of the phosphorus, 74.7 percent of the potash, and 94.5 percent of the calcium out of the total amount lost from the soils of the United States each year. The difference between each of the figures and 100 percent is the portion of elements taken from the soil by all crop production and by grazing.

Wedding Plans Told At Anniversary Tea

Joseph B. Browns
Hosts at Home
Sunday

When Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Browns of N. Court street entertained their friends at an informal tea, Sunday, in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary they also made the interesting announcement of the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Marjorie Ann, to Mr. Theodore Lauver, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lauver of Frankfort.

Large bouquets of garden flowers including tall spikes of gladioli and brilliant hued zinnias formed the colorful setting for the affair. Clematis and tiny wedding bells on silver ribbon completed the decorations of the rooms of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Browns were married in Circleville 25 years ago and have lived in the community since their marriage. The news of their daughter's engagement was found on silver scrolls hidden in individual colonial nosegays presented the guests as favors when they gathered in the dining room for refreshments. The marriage will be in the late fall.

The tea table was centered with a bowl of scabiosa, veronica and roses flanked with four tall white tapers. Refreshments of ice cream in appropriate individual moulds, cakes and coffee were served at 4 o'clock.

The guests included Miss Brown, Mr. Lauver, Joseph Brown, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Brown, Mrs. Linnie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Brown, Mrs. Lillie Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Glick, David Glick, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clendenen, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Stout and sons, Billy and Jack, William Stout, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Miller, Mr. and Mrs. E. ### Hoch-Johnson Wedding

Miss Isabelle Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Johnson of Lancaster, became the bride of Mr. Charles F. Hoch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Hoch, at an early morning wedding solemnized Saturday at St. Mary's church, Lancaster.

A large number of interested friends of the Lancaster community and from a distance gathered for the impressive ceremony read at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Edmund McCormick, who also celebrated the nuptial mass.

Following the church service, Mr. Johnson was host at a reception at his home and a buffet breakfast served in the garden of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Crook, just next door.

Among the guests at the wedding and reception were Mrs. M. J. Valentine and daughters, Mrs. James Sampson of Circleville and Miss Edith Valentine of Lancaster.

Buffet Supper-Bridge

Miniature sunflowers and zinnias in antique copper bowls formed the unusually attractive decorations, Saturday, when Mrs. M. E. Noggle and sister, Mrs. Chester Valentine of Saltcreek township, were joint hostesses at a buffet supper and bridge party at the Noggle home in W. Union street. The affair was arranged in honor of their sister, Mrs. W. B. Poor of Houston, Tex. who, with her family, has been visiting during the summer with her sisters and other relatives in Ohio.

Fourteen guests were entertained at supper and at the games of progressive contract bridge which followed.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Safe-guarding zinnias

IN LATE Summer, when zinnias should be at their best, they often need watching in order to detect and check any disease which might spread or destroy their blooms.

As shown in this Garden-Graph, a form of botrytis blight may ruin the blossom. As soon as this blight is noticed the flower heads affected should be cut off and wrapped in paper and then burned, in order to prevent the further spread of the disease. If this is not done the spores of this fungus blight will be carried by air currents from infected plants to healthy ones, thus ruining the entire planting.

Spraying the zinnia plants at regular intervals with bordeaux mixture will check botrytis blight as well as leaf spot or leaf blight. When powdery mildew covers the leaves, dusting with fine sulphur will prevent its spread.

September is the time to start planting paperwhite narcissus in either soil or pebbles for indoor blooming. Those planted early in September may be easily had in blossom for Thanksgiving Day.

STREET PLEADS FOR RETURN OF FREAK DELIVERY

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Legalizing the spit-ball and the increasing epidemic of arm ailments among major league pitchers will soon end, Gabby Street, manager of the St. Louis Browns, said today.

"If the spitball isn't given back to the hurlers," said "Old Sarge" Street, "they'll have to dig a bigger graveyard every season for dead pitching arms."

Some of baseball's greatest names—Carl Hubbell, Lefty Grove, Van Mungo, Dizzy and Paul Dean, Lee Grissom and Schoolboy Rowe—have gone to the sidelines this season with sore arms that could have been saved, Street said.

"The spitball would give pitchers a chance to ease up now and then," he explained. "At times they could bluff with it—make believe they were going to throw it, and shoot something else. It would relieve their pressure. It's got to come back."

Overwork is causing all the arm trouble this year, he said, and added:

"Some people say pitchers' arms are going bad because they're not working hard and often enough. That's silly. The cause is too much bearing down."

Gabby, who is in his 39th season in baseball, said modern pitchers must put the pressure on more than the old timers because of (1) The lively ball; (2) Encroachment on the playing field by left and right field stands and (3) Depriving pitchers of artificial deliveries like the spitball, emory ball, mudball and shiner.

HARDER RESCUES INDIANS AFTER MANY DEFEATS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—(UP)—After losing five out of six games in three days to the murderous Yankees, the Cleveland Indians today gave a prayer of relief for the accommodating Washington Senators and Detroit Tigers.

Oscar Vitt's men moved from Yankee stadium into Griffith stadium yesterday and managed to turn back the Senators, 6 to 5. Meanwhile, the Tigers edged out the second-place Red Sox, 4 to 3, in the 10th and sliced the Bostonians lead over the Tribe to three games.

Vitt called "old reliable" for the current season, Mel Harder, to tackle the Senators and the veteran righthander travelled the full nine innings for his 13th victory of the year against nine defeats. The triumph tied Harder with Johnny Allen, erstwhile Tribe mound ace, in number of victories but Allen has lost one less game.

With the Cleveland pitching staff virtually shattered after the disastrous New York series, climaxed by Monte Pearson's 15-0 no-hitter over the Tribe Saturday, Harder was told he had to go the route.

He allowed 13 hits, two more than the Tribe collected off a trio of Washington hurlers, and only walked three. The Vittmen pushed across three runs in the first inning on a double by Lary, a triple by Campbell, single by Heath and Trosky's double.

They added two more in the third and counted what proved to be the winning run in the sixth on Earl Averill's second triple and Pytlak's double.

ARMSTRONG MAY NOT BATTLE AS FEATHERWEIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 29.—(UP)—Reports that Henry Armstrong will toss the world featherweight boxing title aside were substantiated today with only one reservation—money in imposing quantity.

"Never again does Henry pare his body down to the feather limit of 126 pounds unless the public makes it worth while," Armstrong's manager, Eddie Mead, announced. "Not that Henry can't make the weight; it's just too much bother to do it for peanuts, and with three titles we don't have to work for peanuts."

Mead explained he as yet has not been informed of a title challenge filed with the New York Boxing commission by Joey Archibald of Providence, R. I., but said he would have an answer ready for that news when it arrives.

"Archibald won't draw as an opponent if Henry should. When I am informed of the filing I will tell the commission we don't think Archibald is a representative challenger. Then I suggest an elimination tournament to produce the No. 1 man.

"The tournament stirs up inter-

Yanks Fifth in Batting, But Bingles Mean Runs

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—(UP)—You want to know why the Yankees win ball games? Well, all you have to do is pick up the current American league club batting records and you'll see.

But at first glance you won't. Misleading is the Yankees' batting average of .280 which places them in fifth place. That may throw you off the track right away because the Red Sox are hitting .284, the Senators .291, the Browns .282 and the Indians .281.

Look closer and you'll see secret of the Yanks' success. In extra base hits, runs and runs batted in they are supreme. They've hit 140 homers, 32 more than Detroit their nearest rival. They've scored 784 runs, 134 more than the Red Sox.

They've driven in 732 runs, 114 more than the Red Sox. In total extra base hits they've amassed 1137 bases, 167 more than the Indians.

These figures in hard, cold type may not be terrifying but when the Yanks swing into action they mean runs and victories. Yesterday the Yanks gave a classic illustration of how extra base power wins ball games. They made just four hits but those hits included two home runs and a double and were enough to beat the Browns, who made 12 hits, 4-2.

Henrich Punches Ball

Tommy Henrich, the pink-cheeked outfielder who plays the piano and goes to symphony concerts, exploded the dynamite which wrecked Buck Newsom's 4-hit game.

He blasted out two homers—Nos. 17 and 18—and a double to score and drive in all New York tallies. He hit his first homer with the bases empty, his second with a mate on base and his double was converted into the Yanks' fourth run. Having hit two homers in the nightcap of Saturday's doubleheader with Cleveland, Henrich made it four circuit clouts in his last two games.

Although he gave up 12 hits Red Ruffing pulled through to score his 19th victory, more than any other major league pitcher this season. The triumph combined with the Red Sox's defeat by the Tigers lengthened the Yank's lead to 13 games, longest this season.

Hank Greenberg's 45th homer and Rudy York's 29th tied the score 3-3 in the Tigers-Red Sox game and enabled Detroit to pull through to a 4-3 victory in 10 innings. Greenberg's homer put him nine games and nine days ahead of Babe Ruth's record-breaking schedule in 1927 when the Bambino hit 60.

In the other American league games the Athletics took a doubleheader from the White Sox, 5-4 and 7-2, and Cleveland defeated Washington, 6-5. The defeat dropped the Senators to fifth place, the Tigers moving into first division.

650 HORSES AT PARK PREPARING FOR FALL MEET

COLUMBUS, Aug. 29.—Runners return to Central Ohio Saturday, Sept. 3, when a Fall meeting of 19 days gets under way at Beulah Park.

The meeting promises to be very successful. All stalls at the Grove City course are filled and it is estimated that more than 650 horses are on the grounds.

With a number of handicap performers ready to compete in the feature events, it is likely that several track records will fall.

Seven races will be contested daily, with the exception of Saturdays and Labor Days when eight will be carded. The feature of opening day, the Inaugural Handicap, will be at six furlongs. The Labor Day headline will be a handicap at one mile. Post time for the first race daily will be 2:15 p. m.

A few of the stables that will campaign at Beulah are the Darby Dan Stable, owned by John Galbreath; W. Ashbridge, C. N. Finch, Odessa Farm Stable and Tom Deahl.

SARAZEN VICTOR

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(UP)—A familiar name—Gene Sarazen—today was back in the winning column of golf. Gene put together a pair of sub-par rounds, 70 and 68, yesterday to win the Lake Placid open title and first prize of $750 with an aggregate of 281 for 72 holes.

est and the interest stirs up a big gate for the title defense. This makes it profitable for Henry to chop off those pounds, no much of a problem when you remember he weighed only 133 after the Ambers fight."

CAMP MEETING, ENDING SUNDAY, LARGEST IN CHURCH'S HISTORY

CROWD ON LAST DAY ESTIMATED ABOVE 12,000

More Than $5,000 Pledged For Missionaries In Next Year

Total attendance at the Mount of Praise camp meeting, E. Ohio street, during the 12 days session was estimated by officials Sunday night at 60,000 persons. Sunday's crowd was believed to be between 12,000 and 14,000 persons.

The camp this year was the largest in every respect in the history of the institution. In addition to the larger crowds there were more persons living on the grounds and the programs were more elaborate.

Monday was the day for cleaning and closing the camp buildings and grounds until next year.

During the session more than 6,800 regular meals were served in the dining hall. This number does not include the thousands of persons who passed through the cafeteria where no count could be obtained. The crowd on the first Sunday of the camp meeting was estimated at 10,000 persons.

Missionaries Aided

Contributions and pledges amounting to about $5,100 were obtained for foreign missionary service Saturday afternoon, the annual missionary day. The program was featured by addresses by returned missionaries. Contributions and pledges this year exceed those last year by about $1,000. The Rev. Sarah Mae Rooker, of Columbus, will be sent to Mexico as a missionary by the churches.

Additional improvements on the camp are planned within the next two years. Officials hope to erect a new dining hall and kitchen. The present dining hall, the original tabernacle on the grounds, is inadequate for the crowds.

In recent years improvements have been made on the tabernacle campgrounds every two years. This year the tabernacle was enlarged, a new dormitory erected, more land added to the grounds and a new road constructed in the rear.

Evangelists Employed

Next year's camp opens the third Wednesday in August. Evangelists employed for next year are the Rev. Charles Slater, Pasadena, Cal., T. M. Anderson, Westport, Ky., and R. G. Flexon, of Pennsylvania. The Rev. Mr. Anderson has been employed as evangelist for five years.

To meet the expense of improvements made this year folders for dimes were issued. Each folder will hold 12 dimes. Officials hope to obtain a "mile of dimes" to meet camp expenses. The folders are to be returned by Dec. 1.

Many Bouquets Received

About 1,700 book marks were sold in connection with the 20th anniversary of the camp. Many beautiful bouquets of flowers were sent to the camp by Circleville merchants and firms.

Plucks Out Eye, Cuts Off Hand

LIFE of Mrs. Ola Harwell, 26, of Merced, Cal., who gouged out her eye with a pair of scissors and hacked off her hand with an ax because "they had sinned", can be saved, according to physicians. Authorities spoke in amazement of the story told by her husband, Woodrow Harwell, 20, a Texas cotton picker. He said his wife performed the self-mutilation after a prayer session in their one-room cabin in which she read these passages in the Bible: "And if thy hand or thy foot causeth thee to stumble, cut it off . . . and if thine eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out . . ."

South Carolina Ready For Test of New Deal

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 29.—(UP)—Two last minute developments on the eve of South Carolina's turbulent Democratic senatorial primary race—a statement by President Roosevelt and the withdrawal of Candidate Edgar A. Brown—caused high excitement throughout the state today.

Both Sen. Ellison D. Smith and Gov. Olin D. Johnston were quick to comment on the President's statement.

Smith said he would "continue to support . . . any Democratic President" unless such support would be "in direct conflict with what I consider the best interests of South Carolina . . . and if that be treason, let my opposition make the most of it."

Johnston, agreeing with the President, accused Smith of not being "in time with the forward march of progressive government."

It was the second time Mr. Roosevelt had taken a hand in the South Carolina campaign. After an address at Barnesville, Georgia, on August 11, at Greenville, he urged support for New Dealers and declared that it was his belief that no man could live on 50 cents a day. This was aimed at Smith, who immediately explained to his constituents that he spoke of individuals and families living on 50 cents a day in an allegorical, not a literal, sense. The reference was contained in one of Smith's senate speeches.

Johnston Confident
"The President's endorsement and Brown's withdrawal assures my election by an overwhelming majority," Johnston said, reflecting his delight and that of his supporters at Mr. Roosevelt's statement.

"I'm sorry Brown withdrew because I wanted the satisfaction of winning over both him and my opponent," Smith, 72 years old but full of fight, commented.

Johnston and Smith headquarters organized to corral some 50,000 to 75,000 votes believed to have been turned loose when Brown quit. Political observers would not predict where the Brown votes would go. Brown is a New Dealer but he also had been a bitter political enemy of Johnston. Brown did not say whom he would support.

Brown withdrew because he had "reached the unhappy conclusion" that he was the third man in the engineering. Land appraisal experience, differing in degree of responsibility according to the grade of the position, is required. Applicants for the land appraiser position must not have passed their 53rd birthday, and those for the Associate and assistant grades must not have passed their 50th birthday.

Closing dates for receipt of applications for these examinations are: Sept. 26 if applications are received from States East of Colorado.

Full information may be obtained from Leslie L. Pontious, secretary of the U. S. Civil Service Board of Examiners, at the post-office.

PETITION ERROR DELAYS ACTION IN SCHOOL CASE

Ross County Board Asked To Transfer District To Pickaway

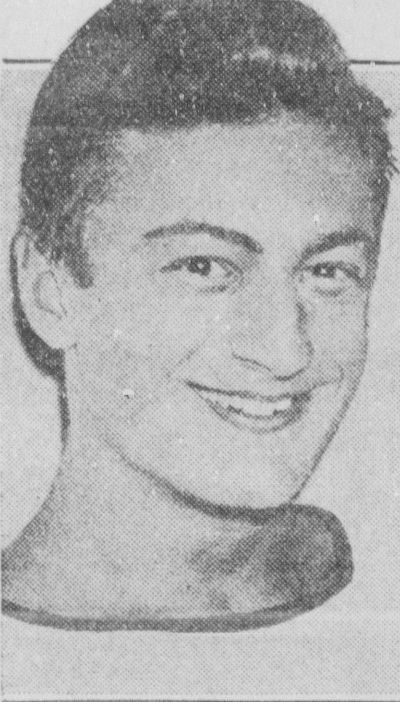

Technicalities on the manner in which petitions were drawn and circulated among residents of the Adelphi and Colerain sections of the Adelphi-Harrison school district, asking transfer to Pickaway county in the tri-county school program, resulted in the Ross county board delaying any action on the proposed transfer Saturday.

Three petitions bearing 280 signatures out of a possible 315 electors were presented. One of the petitions bearing 101 signatures asked the transfer of the Adelphi-Colerain section of the Adelphi-Harrison district to the Saltcreek district of Pickaway county. On the other two petitions the transfer was asked to Pickaway county, this section of the petition headings being amended with pencil. Under the law the transfer must be made to the Pickaway county school board and not to a certain district. It would be the duty of the Pickaway county board, if the transfer was made, to assign the Ross county territory to the Saltcreek township district or create a new district.

Action Delayed

The Ross county board held that the inasmuch as one of the petitions was incorrectly headed no action be taken on the petitions at this time. With 101 names removed from the entire list of signatures it would place the number below the 75 percent required for a transfer. The legality of the pencil amendments on the other petitions was not questioned after the first petition was considered. Indications Saturday were that new petitions would be circulated in the district. This will possibly require about another month for completion.

Public hearing on the proposed transfer of the Laurelville-Perry section of Hocking county to Pickaway county will be held Sept. 9.

Formation of the proposed tri-county district would include construction of new school to cost $150,000 at the intersection of Routes 56 and 180. A federal grant of 45 percent would be asked of P.W.A.

Suspect in Chick Theft Caught in Hocking Hills

An early morning "excursion" into a remote section of the Hocking county wooded district resulted in arrest of Herbert Tisdale, 27, Laurelville R. F. D. 3, as a suspect in theft of 43 chickens from James Seymour, Saltcreek township. The burglary took place August 20. Deputy Sheriff R. E. Armstrong has been investigating the Seymour burglary.

Tisdale was taken into custody at an out-of-the-way cabin about 2:30 a. m. Sunday.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputies Armstrong and Earl Weaver went to the Hocking county hills late Saturday night after they received a tip that Tisdale, whom they had been seeking, could be located. They surrounded a cabin in which he was said to be staying, but were warned by a voice inside not to try to come in without a search warrant. Sheriff Radcliff, rather than violate a statute since he was out of his jurisdiction, told the deputies to remain at the cabin while he drove to Logan to obtain the aid of Sheriff Joe Farbeann. When Radcliff returned with Farbeann he found Tisdale sitting outside the house, having surrendered to the deputies.

Charges of larceny will be placed against him.

The sheriff said that Tisdale was not connected with the Radcliff-Bostic-Goodrich group that had been raiding chicken houses in Pickaway, Fairfield and Knox counties during the last several months. Four men, including two Goodrich brothers, are held in the county jail awaiting hearings. One of the alleged gang, Homer Bostic, 26, will be returned to the U. S. reformatory at Chillicothe as a parole violator. He had been serving a three year term for violation of federal liquor laws.

FORMER MEAT SALESMAN HANGS HIMSELF IN JAIL

Dave Wash, 45, known to many Circleville and Pickaway county meat dealers, committed suicide in the Columbus city prison Sunday night when he used his belt as a noose to hang himself. Wash was in jail charged with participating in drug traffic.

He was known also as Ben M. Walsh. He had served as a meat salesman in Central Ohio for many years.

He was arrested by federal men in Zanesville last week.

From your own experience, we think you'll agree that motorists are most critical of engine performance, power and mileage when their cars are new.

Thousands of these critical new car owners, in 140 cities, were asked which gasoline they preferred on the basis of actual performance. Blue Sunoco came out 'way ahead of any other gasoline—including those selling at premium prices—and led its nearest competitor by 51.5% more votes.

Since its performance won first place among owners of new cars with high compression engines, obviously, in older cars Blue Sunoco will be equally efficient. Test it in your car and see if you don't agree.

This survey was conducted in 11 eastern states by an independent organization. The replies received were submitted to Lybrand, Ross Brothers and Montgomery, certified public accountants, who prepared the above tabulation therefrom.
